

Faculty Positions Announcement
Counseling and Counseling Psychology Programs
School of Letters and Sciences
Arizona State University

The Faculty of Counseling and Counseling Psychology in the School of Letters and Sciences at Arizona State University invites applicants for three tenure-track positions, two at the rank of Assistant Professor and one at the rank of Associate Professor. Specialty areas of teaching and research are open but must be appropriate to counseling and counseling psychology. The Faculty of Counseling and Counseling Psychology offer an APA-approved Ph.D. program in Counseling Psychology, a CACREP-accredited Master of Counseling program in Clinical Mental Health Counseling, and a Master of Counseling program with an emphasis in school counseling. ASU is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as a Research University with high research activity and emphasizes exceptional scholarship, quality teaching, and professional service. Complete information about the programs and faculty can be found at these websites: <http://sls.asu.edu/cp/mc/> and <http://sls.asu.edu/cp/phd/>.

The Counseling and Counseling Psychology faculty is committed to affirmative action and to policies of non-discrimination. The faculty believes that an essential part of training at both the master and doctoral levels is understanding and appreciating all aspects of human diversity. In 2006, the Counseling Psychology program was the recipient of the APA Suinn Minority Achievement award in recognition of its commitment to diversity.

Responsibilities: Successful candidates will be expected to:

- 1) establish and maintain an active research program with the potential of attracting extramural funding.
- 2) teach required courses in both the APA-approved Ph.D. program and the CACREP-approved Master of Counseling program.
- 3) advise and mentor graduate students.
- 4) provide service to the program, college, university, profession, and community as appropriate to rank.
- 5) Applicants for the Associate Professor position must be willing to assume a future administrative/leadership role in the programs.

Required Qualifications: A doctorate in Counseling Psychology, Counselor Education, or related field by 8/16/12; an active research program with publications appropriate to rank; and demonstrated excellence in instruction and/or research mentoring as appropriate to rank.

Desired Qualifications: Appropriate to rank--Record of successful external funding for research and/or training; record of successful supervision of theses and/or dissertation; and demonstrated experience in working with diverse populations.

Applications: The application deadline is Friday, November 18, 2011; if not filled, every two weeks thereafter until search is closed. Applicants should submit a cover letter describing their scholarly agenda and their qualifications for the Assistant Professor positions or for the Associate Professor position, a curriculum vitae, selected copies of scholarly work, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants for the Assistant Professor positions should include three letters of reference. Applicants for the Associate Professor position should submit the names and contact information for three references. Send to: Search Committee (Assistant Professor, Counseling and Counseling Psychology #9916 or Associate Professor, Counseling and Counseling Psychology #9915) as one complete electronic file to Kim Haren (Kim.Haren@asu.edu). We do not accept incomplete applications.

Arizona State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. ASU's non-discrimination statement can be found at <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>.