Association for Counselor Education and Supervision

What is ACES?

This is the professional home for those interested in educating and supervising counselors. The ultimate purpose of the Association, in accordance with the purpose of ACA, is to advance counselor education and supervision in order to improve the provision of effective counseling services to diverse clientele in all settings of society.

Thus the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision (ACES) emphasizes the need for quality education and supervision of counselors in all work settings and advocates for the infusion of social justice and diversity in the preparation of counselors and supervisors. The association encourages publications on current issues, promotes relevant research, highlights proven practices, ethical standards and conversations on related problems. Persons who are engaged in the professional preparation of counselors will find leadership through ACES.

Who Joins ACES?

ACES members include counselor educators, students of counselor education, supervisors in many settings and others who want to stay informed about the latest issues and scholarship in the field. ACES activities include national conferences and affiliation with smaller groups in the five ACES regions:

- North Atlantic Region
- North Central Region
- Rocky Mountain Region
- Southern Region
- Western Region

Benefits of Joining ACES

Besides the benefits of ACA membership, ACES provides members with:

- The ACES journal, Counselor Education and Supervision, published quarterly, includes articles concerned with research, theory development, and program applications pertinent to counselor education and supervision. All members receive electronic access to the journal, which includes the full digital archive going back to 1961(1).
- Publication of monographs and videos on the latest trends in counselor education, counseling and supervision.
- Regional conferences and national conferences.
- Networking and mentoring with other counselors, supervisors, and graduate students.
- Reduced rates for attendance at ACES national conference.
- Resources online at www.acesonline.net

- Full text online access to articles in Counselor Education and Supervision.
- Involvement in many committees on special topics in counseling, such as gender, aging, technology, and multicultural issues.
- Professional development institutes and other continuing education opportunities.
- Linkage with other groups within ACA who share similar concerns on counseling.
- Opportunities for leadership and professional growth through ACES sponsored activities.
- A dynamic organization constantly working for you. Encourage your colleagues and students to become ACES members!
- Membership in region of residence included
- Access to the “members only” section of the ACES website (www.acesonline.net) that provides discussion boards and updates regarding issues and trends in the field, plus announcements of professional opportunities.
