Join us for a dynamic conference dedicated to promoting the physical, mental and emotional wellbeing of children, families, caregivers, and the professionals who serve them.

Sessions will touch on ways to strengthen resilience in everyday life, emerging ideas in care for parents and young children, and evolving models that promote whole-person health. Additional themes will include fostering supportive learning environments, uplifting families and communities as they navigate challenging experiences, and enhancing our professional practice through strengthened clinical supervision.

This conference is intended for social workers, counselors, community health workers, and allied health professionals across Ohio and throughout the U.S.
