

OHIO CELEBRATES INTERNATIONAL GIS DAY!

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 2016

The OHIO Department of Geography and the Voinovich School of Leadership and Public Affairs are pleased to present the Third Annual OHIO GIS Day Celebration!

Geographic Information System (GIS) technology isn't just maps. It is a 21st century platform for communicating all types of information about our dynamic world in a more visual way.

Come learn how GIS applies to research and real-world, regional projects!

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Pizza will be provided. Please bring your own water bottle to this Earth Day, Every Day Green Event.

For more details:
ohio.edu/ce3

Questions?
Elissa Welch, welche@ohio.edu

GIS DAY PANEL 1

10:45 – 11:40 AM | Clippinger Hall, RM 119

"GIS is Wildlife Conservation: The Return of the Bobcat to Ohio"

Suzie Prange, Ph.D., Furbearer Specialist & Research Biologist, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Wildlife

"The Rocks Are Hotter on the Other Side of the Fence: Timber Rattlesnakes (Crotalus horridus) in a Road-Fragmented Landscape"

Garrett P. Sisson, Master's Candidate, Ohio University

GIS DAY PANEL 2

11:50 AM – 12:45 PM | Clippinger Hall, RM 119

"Feet, Wheels, Doors and Tailpipes: Using GIS to Study our Daily Travel Patterns"

Michael Lachman, Coordinator, Athens Public Transit

"The Layers of GIS: Tasks, Tools and Products"

Steven Porter, Geospatial Software Development Engineer, Ohio University

This OHIO event is certified as a Green Event based on sustainable waste management, food sourcing, and energy and water conservation efforts. Please visit www.ohio.edu/zerowaste for more information.