

Assistant/Associate Professor, Department of Clinical Medicine.

Our lively and diverse faculty and student body, coupled with our cutting-edge facilities, contribute to a dynamic environment that makes NYIT College of Osteopathic Medicine the top choice in joining a thriving team of academicians committed to the success of osteopathic physicians in training. Come join our team of leaders and interdisciplinary experts in medical education, an exciting community that fosters academic development. As a full-time Faculty member, you will apply innovative teaching methodologies, cutting-edge technologies and other industry trends reflecting advancements in the medical discipline.

Department: College of Osteopathic Medicine

Primary Location: Jonesboro, Arkansas

Responsibilities include but not limited to:

- Teach a variety of lectures/courses, based on expertise
- Research/scholarly activity
- Patient care with contracted health care organizations
- Provide mentorship to students
- Foster and promote diversity and collegiality among faculty, students and staff
- Develop and maintain relationships with the professional community related to the discipline to support practicum experiences and project collaborations
- Participate in curriculum design & development
- Active support of college mission and initiatives
- Active engagement in professional development activities and participation on college committees

Qualifications:

- D.O. or M.D. degree from a COCA or LCME approved school of osteopathic medicine or medicine.
- Candidates in all specialties considered. Family Medicine, Internal medicine, Pediatrics, NMM/ OMM Plus one, preferred.
- Board Certified or Board Eligible.

If you are highly motivated and passionate about teaching exceptional osteopathic medical students, we'd like to hear from you.

EOE AA M/F/Vet/Disability

Contact: nyitcomarkansas.jobs@nyit.edu