

What Is Social Justice in Education, Really?

Examining Social Justice Across Multiple Educational Landscapes

The Department of Educational Leadership at Miami University presents the 10th annual Graduate Student Conference on Leadership, Culture and Pedagogy Feb. 20, 2010 McGuffey Hall
www.muohio.edu/edl

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

What Is Social Justice in Education, Really? Examining Social Justice Across Multiple Educational Landscapes

The Department of Educational Leadership of Miami University is pleased to announce the 10th Annual Graduate Student Conference on Leadership, Culture, and Pedagogy. The conference will take place on February 20, 2010 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. This conference is a multidisciplinary forum for graduate students to present research and scholarship that brings various analytical lenses to bear on issues of social justice across multiple educational landscapes, including p-12 schooling, higher education, and community education among others. We invite submissions on educational topics that include a critical analysis of culture, power, identity, and ethics that impact issues of social justice in education. We are open to a wide range of methodologies and encourage faculty/student collaborations as well as the scholarship of individual graduate students. We welcome proposals for panels, round tables, individual papers, and alternative formats such as reader's theater, monologues and other creative performances that address the theme of this conference. If interested in participating in this conference as a presenter, please e-mail an abstract of 200-300 words including title, keywords, topic, and the preferred format of presentation by Friday, January 1, 2010 to: EdlConf@muohio.edu.