

OHIO CENTER FOR ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTIONARY STUDIES

PRESENTS A LECTURE BY

KRISTINA
DOUGLASS, PHD

PENN STATE UNIVERSITY

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14

10 AM

IRVINE HALL RM. 199

INTEGRATING ARCHAEOLOGY & CONSERVATION IN SOUTHWEST MADAGASCAR

Madagascar today faces serious environmental challenges, including loss of biodiversity, deforestation, and erosion. These issues reflect a long history of human-environment interactions that began with the island's colonization about 4000 years ago. Dr. Douglass combines archaeology and conservation in her research on long-term environmental change in southwest Madagascar to find sustainable solutions that will benefit both human and natural communities.

Geological Sciences

Environmental Studies

OHIO
UNIVERSITY MUSEUM
COMPLEX