

PUBLIC POLICY ISSUES RELATED TO THE NATIONAL SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM

Voinovich School Digital Academy | Free Webinar Series

APRIL 3, 2020 | 2-3 P.M.

Do you want to learn how to influence public policy through advocacy? Learn how to exercise your voice and become a leader in effecting advocacy and change by looking through the lens of advocacy related to food insecurity issues and the National School Lunch Program. This webinar will provide inspiration and strategies for you to get involved in advocacy and learn how to affect change related to your own public policy passion.

LEARN ABOUT:

- Strategies for advocacy and effecting change through practical application
- How to become equipped to have a voice in education public policymaking
- Effective approaches to creating partnerships with other entities involved in policy advocacy
- What you can do to positively impact the National School Lunch program and address childhood food insecurity

WHO SHOULD ATTEND:

PreK-12 educators and administrators, government and non-profit individuals, policy and decision makers at all levels, non-governmental and civic organizations and other professionals who are interested in learning about advocacy strategies related to childhood food insecurity and the National Food Lunch Program.

PRESENTERS:

Dwan Robinson, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor in Educational Administration and Chair of the Department of Educational Studies at Ohio University's Patton College of Education. She also is the coordinator for the online Education Public Policy Leadership Certificate program (EPPLC) focused on increasing public policy and advocacy experiences. She teaches courses in educational leadership, educational policy and politics, and school and community relations.

Thomas Stevenson, MA, CHIE, CHIA, FSM, is an Assistant Professor of Instruction in the Department of Human and Consumer Sciences at The Patton College of Education and a 30-year practitioner in the hospitality industry. Thom recently completed an EPPLC with support for the NSLP and policy changes within, as well as using foodways knowledge to create work and job force training and opportunities for those who "sit in the margins" as his focus.

To register, visit voinovichdigitalacademy.ohio.edu

Log-in information will be sent in advance with a confirmation email.

For additional information about applying for the Education Public Policy Leadership Graduate Certificate Online, visit ohio.edu/education/epplc or email epplc@ohio.edu.