BE A STUDENT AMBASSADOR

For the Patton College of Education

STAND OUT IN THE CROWD!

Exceptional students and exemplary leaders represent The Patton College of Education (PCOE) to future students, alumni and distinguished college guests.

WHY STRIVE TO BE A STUDENT AMBASSADOR?

Who You'll Know: Develop a rich network of professional and personal relationships with students, faculty, staff, alumni and leaders in education and human service professions. You will build friendships with future colleagues and potential employers.

What You'll Know: Hone your current leadership skills and gain a new, marketable skill set with professional development designed to help you win friends, influence people, and make a difference in students' lives.

Who is eligible to be a Student Ambassador?

Serving as a PCOE Ambassador is an honor and a distinction. To be considered, you need to be enrolled in a program housed in The Patton College of Education with sophomore, junior, senior or graduate status.

Ambassadors must have:

- 3.3 GPA or higher
- Strong verbal and written communication skills
- Compelling interpersonal skills (energetic, dependable, knowledgeable)
- Ability to communicate with diverse individuals & value different viewpoints
- Outstanding leadership qualities (demonstrated by involvement in PCOE, campus or community organizations)

START STRIVING TO BE AN AMBASSADOR EARLY IN YOUR PCOE EXPERIENCE!
